

New Year's Party on FRIDAY, December 30, 2011

Well it's the holiday season and as many of you know we are planning a New Year's Eve EVE party this year. That's right, it's going to be on the 30th instead of the 31st! Why? There are many reasons. Over the past several years traditional New Years Eve celebrations have been on the decline. The tendency now is for people to stay home on New Years Eve and celebrate with family and friends. Many of the local bars don't even stay open past 6:00 PM any longer because with roadblocks up everywhere people have a fear of drinking and driving. While we certainly don't want you to drive if you've done too much celebrating we do want you to be able to have a great yearend party with your friends.

That's the reason we're offering the best of both worlds! We're going to have a year end blowout party on the 30th! We will celebrate with open bar from 6:00 - 7:30, an assortment of fantastic foods, an awesome band and champagne! You'll get to have a great time and still be able to spend New Years Eve any way you like! What more could you ask for!

We've tried several new things this year and we've had some great successes. We don't expect this to be any different. Reservations have already started to come in so be sure to sign your group up for this fun filled, end of the year gathering with all of your friends from the club!

We'll see you there!
